Understanding The Intricacies Of Water

An online introduction to water resources, quality and affordability

Panel Moderator, Ujji Thomas
Metropolitan chief diversity, equity and inclusion officer

May 14,
5 -7 pm

In partnership with the Southwest Area of the NAACP, the Metropolitan Water District of Southern California invites you to learn together in a special education series about our shared water resources, challenges and opportunities to adapt to a changing environmental and financial climate.

What to Expect

- Straight talk on where your water comes from and how it's protected, monitored and tested
- Engaging conversations with water experts and community leaders
- Space to ask questions, share concerns, and connect with each other

Access to clean, safe and affordable water is a human right and our mission.

This workshop will be the first in a series committed to creating new partnerships and awareness of shared goals with the communities we serve.
