Subject

Express support for ballot measure ACA 1: Local government financing: affordable housing and public infrastructure: voter approval; the General Manager has determined that the proposed action is exempt or otherwise not subject to CEQA

Executive Summary

Ballot measure ACA 1: Local government financing: affordable housing and public infrastructure: voter approval. (ACA 1) proposes a constitutional amendment that is qualified for the November 5, 2024 ballot (Attachment 1). The measure is sponsored by California Professional Firefighters and the California State Building and Construction Trades Council. ACA 1 seeks to create parity between school districts and other local government entities by giving cities, counties and special districts the ability to adopt ad valorem property taxes and pass local bond and special tax measures at the same vote threshold that is currently afforded to school districts when placing a bond or special tax on the ballot.

If passed by the voters, ACA 1 allows for new ad valorem property taxes and special local taxes to be imposed pursuant to a 55 percent majority vote, providing that the taxes pay for bonded indebtedness to pay for affordable housing, permanent supportive housing, or public infrastructure (including water and wastewater infrastructure). New ad valorem property taxes imposed for the specified purposes would be exempt from the constitutional total 1 percent ad valorem limit if approved by a 55 percent vote. Additionally, the voting threshold for local agencies placing a bond or local special tax on the ballot to fund the identified projects is lowered from two-thirds to 55 percent majority. This measure would also set control measures to ensure the taxes pay for the authorized purposes only and allows the Legislature to create additional control measures.

Option #1

Express Support for Ballot Measure ACA 1: Local government financing: affordable housing and public infrastructure: voter approval.

Fiscal Impact: Unknown

Business Analysis: If passed, ACA 1 would improve local agencies' ability to raise revenues for specified housing and public infrastructure (including water and wastewater infrastructure) projects, which increases the feasibility of project success and improves water supply management.

Option #2

Take no action

Fiscal Impact: Unknown

Business Analysis: Without this measure, local agencies and governments will continue to not have parity with the voting threshold required to raise revenue with local school districts and would continue to need a two-thirds supermajority to approve financing for affordable housing, permanent supportive housing and public infrastructure (including water and wastewater infrastructure) projects.

Details and Background

Background on ACA 1

ACA 1 will be on the November 2024 ballot and is sponsored by the California Professional Firefighters and the California State Building and Construction Trades Council. This measure allows for new ad valorem property taxes and special local taxes to be imposed pursuant to a 55 percent majority vote, providing that the taxes pay for bonded indebtedness to pay for affordable housing, permanent supportive housing, or public infrastructure (including water and wastewater infrastructure). New ad valorem property taxes imposed for the specified purposes would be exempt from the constitutional total 1 percent ad valorem limit if approved by a 55 percent vote. Additionally, the voting threshold for local agencies placing a bond or local special tax on the ballot to fund the identified projects is lowered from two-thirds to 55 percent majority. This measure would also set control measures to ensure the taxes pay for the authorized purposes only and allows the Legislature to create additional control measures.

This measure is broadly supported by local government agencies that view the measure as establishing parity between local school districts and other local governments. Currently, school districts have the ability to impose ad valorem property taxes and pass a bond or special tax with a 55 percent vote. If passed, ACA 1 would provide local communities the same ability to finance other public infrastructure and critically needed affordable housing, in addition to local educational facilities.

Key Provisions of ACA 1

Ad Valorem Tax for Voter-Approved Debt

The California Constitution currently prohibits the assessment of an ad valorem tax above 1 percent of the property value, unless specified exemptions apply. Exemptions include:

- (1) Indebtedness approved by the voters before July 1, 1978.
- (2) Bonded indebtedness to fund the acquisition or improvement of real property approved on or after July 1, 1978, by two-thirds of the votes cast by the voters voting on the proposition.
- (3) Bonded indebtedness incurred by a school district, community college district, or county office of education for the construction, reconstruction, rehabilitation, or replacement of school facilities approved by 55 percent of the voters of the district or county, as appropriate, voting on the proposition on or after November 8, 2000.

ACA 1 would add an exemption for bonded indebtedness incurred by a city, county, city and county, or special district for the development or replacement of public infrastructure, affordable housing, or permanent supportive housing. (Attachment 1)

This measure also contains a range of voter protections and guardrails, which include, but are not limited to: (1) a requirement that the local agency conduct annual, independent financial audits on the revenues and uses related to bond proceeds and (2) a requirement that a local citizens oversight committee be established to ensure appropriate management of the funds.

Parcel Taxes and Sales and Use Taxes

The California Constitution currently requires local government agencies to pass special taxes with a two-thirds vote of the local electorate in order to take effect. Specifically, these are parcel taxes, sales and use taxes, and transactions and use taxes.

ACA 1 would provide local government agencies the ability to pass a special tax measure with a 55 percent vote instead of the current two-thirds vote requirement. This section of the measure also contains the same voter protections as noted for the ad valorem tax above, including requirements for an independent audit to be conducted through the duration of the tax funds being in use and the establishment of a citizen's oversight committee to oversee the management of the funds.

Supporters

Supporters include, but are not limited to, the California Special Districts Association and League of California Cities; the measure was sponsored by the California Professional Firefighters California State Building and Construction Trades Council.

Arguments in Support

Proponents of ACA 1 argue this measure will level the playing field and create parity with school districts so that cities, counties, and special districts have a viable financing tool to help address important community needs for affordable housing and public infrastructure. Local voters would still need to overwhelmingly support a new ad valorem tax, bond or special tax with a 55 percent vote, and ACA 1 provides specific requirements for financial accountability.

Questions of taxation and public indebtedness are of the greatest importance to the voters of this state. That is why the California Constitution requires that these questions be taken directly to the voters instead of decided solely by their elected representatives. A 55 percent threshold is enough to indicate whether the bulk of a community is willing to incur that indebtedness or pay a tax for such important services. The current two-thirds structure gives every no vote twice as much say as a yes vote. These are local decisions where a significant majority of the people should be enough to have a say in shaping the outcomes of their community.

Opponents

Opponents include but are not limited to the California Association of Realtors, California Chamber of Commerce, California Taxpayers Association and Howard Jarvis Taxpayers Association.

Arguments in Opposition

Opponents argue that Californians resoundingly approved Proposition 13 to provide a check on local governments' taxing authority, and to ensure a greater representative voice for those who would be taxed. Proposition 13 also limits taxes on property to 1 percent of the property's assessed value. Reducing the vote threshold would diminish the people's voice on tax increases and would erode property tax safeguards.

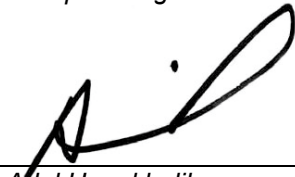

In addition, ACA 1 would sharply lower Proposition 13's two-thirds voter threshold to 55 percent for local special taxes to fund 'infrastructure' so vaguely defined that virtually anything could qualify. It would open the door to the possibility of significant new tax hikes, giving the government more control over property taxpayers without providing an appropriate return on investment.

If passed, ACA 1 would provide local communities parity in financing public infrastructure, including water and wastewater, and critically needed affordable housing with local school districts. For this reason, staff recommends that the Board express support for ACA 1.

RESOLUTION CHAPTER _____

Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 1—A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State, by amending Sections 1 and 4 of Article XIII A thereof, by amending Section 2 of, and by adding Section 2.5 to, Article XIII C thereof, by amending Section 3 of Article XIID thereof, and by amending Section 18 of Article XVI thereof, relating to local finance.

LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL'S DIGEST

ACA 1, Aguiar-Curry. Local government financing: affordable housing and public infrastructure: voter approval.

(1) The California Constitution prohibits the ad valorem tax rate on real property from exceeding 1% of the full cash value of the property, subject to certain exceptions.

This measure would create an additional exception to the 1% limit that would authorize a city, county, city and county, or special district to levy an ad valorem tax to service bonded indebtedness incurred to fund the construction, reconstruction, rehabilitation, or replacement of public infrastructure, affordable housing, including downpayment assistance, or permanent supportive housing, or the acquisition or lease of real property for those purposes, if the proposition proposing that tax is approved by 55% of the voters of the city, county, city and county, or special district, as applicable, and the proposition includes specified accountability requirements. The measure would prohibit a city, county, city and county, or special district from placing a proposition on the ballot pursuant to these provisions if the voters have previously approved a proposition pursuant to these provisions or the below special tax provisions until all funds from the previous proposition are committed to programs and projects listed in the specific local program or ordinance, as described. The measure, subject to certain vote thresholds, would authorize the Legislature to enact laws establishing additional accountability measures and laws for the downpayment assistance programs authorized by the measure, as specified. The measure would specify that these provisions apply to any city, county, city and county, or special district measure imposing an ad valorem tax to pay the interest and redemption charges on bonded indebtedness for these purposes that is submitted at the same election as this measure.

(2) The California Constitution conditions the imposition of a special tax by a local government upon the approval of $\frac{2}{3}$ of the voters of the local government voting on that tax.

This measure would authorize a local government to impose, extend, or increase a sales and use tax or transactions and use tax imposed in accordance with specified law or a parcel tax for the purposes of funding the construction, reconstruction, rehabilitation, or replacement of public infrastructure, affordable housing, including downpayment assistance, or permanent supportive housing, or the acquisition or lease of real property for those purposes, if the proposition proposing that tax is approved by a majority vote of the membership of the governing board of the local government and by 55% of its voters voting on the proposition and the proposition includes specified accountability requirements. The measure would prohibit a local government from placing a proposition on the ballot pursuant to these provisions if the voters have previously approved a proposition pursuant to these provisions or the above ad valorem tax provisions until all funds from the previous proposition are committed to programs and projects listed in the specific local program or ordinance, as described. The measure, subject to certain vote thresholds, would authorize the Legislature to enact laws establishing additional accountability measures and laws for the downpayment assistance programs authorized by the measure, as specified. This measure would also make conforming changes to related provisions. The measure would specify that these provisions apply to any local measure imposing, extending, or increasing a sales and use tax, transactions and use tax, or parcel tax for these purposes that is submitted at the same election as this measure.

(3) The California Constitution prohibits specified local government agencies from incurring any indebtedness exceeding in any year the income and revenue provided in that year, without the assent of $\frac{2}{3}$ of the voters and subject to other conditions. In the case of a school district, community college district, or county office of education, the California Constitution permits a proposition for the incurrence of indebtedness in the form of general obligation bonds for the construction, reconstruction, rehabilitation, or replacement of school facilities, including the furnishing and equipping of school facilities, or the acquisition or lease of real property for school facilities, to be adopted upon the approval of 55% of the voters of the district or county, as appropriate, voting on the proposition at an election.

This measure would expressly prohibit a special district, other than a board of education or school district, from incurring any indebtedness or liability exceeding any applicable statutory limit, as prescribed by the statutes governing the special district. The measure would also similarly require the approval of 55% of the voters of the city, county, city and county, or special district, as applicable, to incur bonded indebtedness, exceeding in any year the income and revenue provided in that year, that is in the form of general obligation bonds issued to fund the construction, reconstruction, rehabilitation, or replacement of public infrastructure, affordable housing, or permanent supportive housing projects, if the proposition proposing that bond includes specified accountability requirements. The measure would specify that this 55% threshold applies to any proposition for the incurrence of indebtedness by a city, county, city and county, or special district for these purposes that is submitted at the same election as this measure.

(4) This measure would deem another measure on the same statewide election ballot relating to state or local requirements for the imposition, adoption, creation, or establishment of taxes, charges, and other revenue measures in conflict with it and would make the other measure null and void if this measure receives more affirmative votes.

Resolved by the Assembly, the Senate concurring, That the Legislature of the State of California at its 2023–24 Regular Session commencing on the fifth day of December 2022, two-thirds of the membership of each house concurring, hereby proposes to the people of the State of California, that the Constitution of the State be amended as follows:

This paragraph shall apply only if the proposition approved by the voters and resulting in the bonded indebtedness includes all of the following accountability requirements:

(A) A requirement that the proceeds from the sale of the bonds be used only for the purposes specified in this paragraph, and not for any other purpose, including teacher and administrator salaries and other school operating expenses.

(3) The Legislature may, by two-thirds vote, enact laws establishing accountability measures in addition to those listed in paragraph (2), provided such laws are consistent with the purposes and intent of this section.
